Books 2 Group Report 2026

What does Mick Herron's intelligence thriller Slow Horses have in common with Anne Bronte's domestic saga The Tenant of Wildfell Hall? Not a lot, you may say.
But both were read and enjoyed at successive meetings of our book group.

It was all change a year ago as our leader since inception, Beth Taylor, stepped down. No one could replace her, but I stepped in to do the admin for the group.

We are eight members, ever happy to discover new authors, and still certain that discussions are better when we disagree about what we've read.
