Computing and Technology Group Report 2026

At the monthly Computing & Technology group meeting, we normally enjoy an informal discussion about a broad range of topics.

We also help each other resolve those tricky tech issues we face daily in our quest to master our phones, tablets, laptops and washing machines (actually, we haven't tackled white goods yet, but it's only a question of time!)

Recently we've looked at some of the benefits of AI for enhancing and structuring or summarising large documents.

We currently have a full complement, but do operate a waiting list for those who want to join when space is available.
